

'I love a parade'

COLORFUL FLOATS, bands, mobile units and, of course, clowns come together each year for the Ainslie Shrine parade. Tuesday night was no exception here as the largest parade ever entertained several thousand spectators lining Madison Avenue and some downtown streets.

Sewer district threatening home searches

Your home will be searched, either voluntarily or with a search warrant. That is the ultimatum that the Madison County Special Sewer District will be issuing in the form of a letter to about 60 Quiet Valley Subdivision residents.

The letter is asking that they cooperate with in-home searches to look for illegal dumping of storm water into the sanitary sewers. Sump pump and downspout connections into the sewers are among the violations for which inspectors will be watching.

Quiet Valley residents will have until June 26 to voluntarily arrange an inspection date with district officials before legal action is to be taken against them, according to the warning letter written by the board's legal advisor, Marshall "Zeke" Smith, said at last night's sewer district meeting that if search warrants become necessary, the first one will be served against Donald Rea, a Pontoon Beach Village Board trustee and a Quiet Valley resident, who has, according to Smith, been uncooperative.

Smith said the 60 letters, addressed to subdivision residents who would not cooperate in home searches, will be the forerunner of similar letters that will probably go out to residents in other areas of the special sewer district. Besides more search warrants, he predicts special television cameras will be used to help the district track down illegal sewage uses.

The assistant state's attorney said the district now has a significant problem with infiltration to the county sewer system, which he feels will soon be monitored closely by Granite City, which provides the district with primary and secondary sewage treatment.

Smith said the district should average about 400,000 gallons of flow daily, but has reached up to three times that total, even prior to the Quiet Valley hookups.

Smith said he decided to send out the letters at this time — rather than to immediately issue the search warrants — to avoid extra work and to give the residents an opportunity to arrange inspections at a time convenient for themselves. He warned that if search warrants are used, the homeowners will not be able to set the time of the inspection.

Smith stated the county sewers were built strictly for sanitary sewage and a district ordinance provides for a $500 fine for violators using the lines for any other drainage purpose.

"Perhaps after we scatter a few $500 fines around, we will be able to protect the great bulk of law-abiding sewer users," Smith stated.

Smith acknowledges that there may be an appearance that the district is "picking" on the residents of Quiet Valley, when no other in-home inspections have been conducted in the district prior to the Quiet Valley residents who have already cooperated.

"I would be the very first" to acknowledge that we are positive that many other people within the district are using a sump pump or perhaps going to greater extremes than that to divert storm water into the sewer," Smith stated.

"None of you can afford that, as our effluent will shortly be monitored by Granite City and the district will be charged on the amount of the effluent, and if we don't get it stopped you can rest assured that you won't be able to afford the sewer rates."

Smith said that the quicker the county gets its 'house in order,' the more reasonable will be rates charged to the sewer users.

GC police seek two-year pact

By GEORGEANN MCGEE
of the Press-Record

Granite City police union members have backed their negotiating committee's recommendation for a two-year contract that allows a pay increase during the second year, despite the council's firm stand against any employee pay increases.

Detective Sgt. Don Knight, president of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees (AFSCME) Local 113, said a general union membership meeting Monday afternoon produced no compromise proposals from the policemen. Knight said the city is offering only a one-year contract with no pay increases.

Last week, Alderman Paul Fisk, chairman of the aldermanic negotiating committee, told the council his committee and police negotiators had reached a deadlock situation. At the session, he said binding arbitration might become a necessary last step.

Alderman Casmer Skubish, a member of the negotiating committee, said the committee has been given nothing to offer any of the five unions which opened contracts this year.

According to the city's tentative budget, the current budget will end with a new $249,000 deficit, and a cumulative deficit of about $570,000. Any pay increases would increase the deficit, according to that budget.

Knight said union members have indicated to him their desire for police negotiators to continue talks with the city — talks he said earlier have been going smoothly, but producing no results. If the talks continue to be unsuccessful, he said, members have indicated arbitration might be required.

No formal membership votes were taken at the Monday meeting. Knight said many members discussed the aldermen's suggestions that additional police department layoffs may be necessary if a pay increase is granted. The 31-member department still has on layoff status all four of its dispatchers and one policeman.

The union president said he plans to meet with the aldermanic negotiating committee this week. The next general union membership meeting is not scheduled until July.

The police contract expired on May 1. The city is negotiating with its clerical employees, also represented by the AFSCME. Negotiations with the firefighters and emergency medical technicians are not completed.

The council has agreed to a two-year contract with the Wastewater Treatment Plant employees. The agreement has no pay increase provisions, but guarantees no layoffs of the 26 members staff without renewed negotiations and "just reason."

It may be inconvenient to motorists and some local cities, for a time, but road improvements for which planning now is underway should provide smoother and safer roads for many in the area.

A road improvement project at the intersection of McCambridge Avenue and Edwardsville Road and plans to cooperate with the City of Venice on rerouting traffic while major repairs are being completed on the Broadway underpass were discussed at length by the Madison City Council, Tuesday night.

Council members adopted an agreement with the Illinois Department of Transportation to begin improvements at McCambridge Avenue

GC cleanup drive to start next week

Granite City's annual cleanup campaign — intended to encourage residents to spruce up their yards and alleys — will begin Monday, according to its coordinator, City Inspector Emerald Dawes.

This year's eight-week effort will continue through Aug. 6.

The inspection department, with the assistance of eight CETA (Community Employment & Training Act) federally-funded workers, will pick up most large items residents want to discard, from bedsprings to washing machines.

Dawes asks that smaller loose items be packaged for easier handling by the workers, but larger single unpackaged items are acceptable.

"As everyone is aware, there have been cutbacks in the Federal Manpower and CETA programs due to lack of funding. Therefore we do not have the available help we've had in the past from these programs," said the city inspector. Last year, the city had 20 CETA workers available for the program.

One cutback will be the omission this year of notices posted throughout sections of the city prior to the pickups. Instead, Dawes is requesting residents that want material picked up to contact the Sanitation Department, 452-6220, and leave their names and addresses.

Residents may call weekdays, during office hours, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., to be included on the pickup list.

Dawes asks residents not to place tree limbs out for these special collections, but instead contact the Granite City Street Department, 452-6222, for tree limb pickups.

Applications for Mayor Paul Schulz's Paint Program, supported by Community Development Funds, still are being accepted through June 18.

The program, which began June 1, will operate for a two-month period. Applications and program guidelines may be obtained and filled out at two locations. Senior citizens may pick up their copies at the office of Nelson Hagauer, township supervisor, 2060 Delmar Ave. Other individuals may pick up their applications at the office of the mayor in city hall.

Venice schools avoid debt

By VALERIE EVENDEN
of the Press-Record

The most encouraging financial news in more than a decade greeted members of the Venice Board of Education at their meeting Monday night — the school district has operated "in the black," though barely so, for the past 12 months.

Venice Superintendent of Schools Robert N. Vickers gave the financial update, stating, "This is the first time in 12 years the district hasn't had to borrow any money. At least we can say the district is out of debt for one year."

"We'll have to scrape the bottom of the barrel to meet the next payday (June 18) and we may have to borrow to cover the next pay period after that (July 2), but at least we will finish the fiscal year on June 30 without issuing any anticipation warrants," the administrator said.

Despite the optimistic news about the past 12 months, the district now must literally "scrape the bottom of the barrel" to meet the next payday.

STRANGE HOME FOR FILES. Records (background) from the office of County Circuit Clerk Willard "Butch" Portell are beginning to pile up in the equipment warehouse of Madison County Special Sewer District office located on East Chain of Rocks Road. The barrage of boxes began soon after the board's legal advisor, State's Attorney Marshall "Zeke" Smith, right, told the clerk, who is suing the county for more space, room was available at that site. Morris Miles, left, chairman of the sewer committee, says the boxes stacked haphazardly by county workers could suffer water damage in the sewer district warehouse.

Mary L. Hoover, who was in the process of moving last week from 412 Madison Ave., Madison, reported arriving there after delivering a truckload of furniture to her new apartment to find a front window open and a bedroom screen broken. An inventory of missing items was being taken.

A few hours later, the woman called police to report that someone again had entered the house through a bathroom window and stolen her white Persian cat. The animal has a blue eye and a brown eye and was wearing a blue collar, she said.

Seek federal aid for tornado victims

Governor James R. Thompson returned last week to Marion, site of a devastating tornado, to review efforts at rebuilding and assure residents of continued state help.

"We have submitted our request for federal disaster assistance to the White House," Thompson said, "and I am confident that President Reagan will grant the necessary relief for this devastated area."

Thompson, who toured the area last week, was to meet with community leaders and groups involved in rescue efforts as well as surveying the area hit by the storm.

The request for a federal disaster declaration sent to Reagan asks for federal assistance for all of Williamson County and two townships in Perry County, where a separate tornado hit the unincorporated community of Conant at 1 p.m. Saturday, May 29.

Ten deaths and 138 injuries were attributed to the tornado that hit Williamson County near Carterville at approximately 3 p.m. at Saturday and traveled east through Crainville and Marion. Eight other persons were injured at Conant.

"Dollar damage estimates are now reported to exceed $85 million, of which $123 million is damage to public property, $84.3 million in private property losses and $10,000 in agricultural losses," Thompson said.

Nine of 11 homes in Conant were destroyed, with total damage estimates for the town at $167,000.

A major disaster declaration, if approved, will provide low-interest loans from the Small Business Administration to individuals and businesses suffering uninsured losses, grant money for persons unable to qualify for loans, temporary housing and unemployment assistance.

Workshop teaches logical thinking

A two-week workshop dealing with teaching logical thinking concepts to children and young adults will be offered at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville during the summer quarter.

The course may be taken at the undergraduate level—Special Problems: Philosophy for Children (HUM 490-4)—or at the graduate level—Seminar in Philosophy of Education (ED 568-4).

Classes are scheduled to meet on weekdays from 1 until 4:35 p.m., beginning June 21 and running through July 2. The course will be team-taught by William S. Hamrick, associate professor of philosophical studies, and Jerome A. Popp, professor of education.

Coursework will primarily be concerned with the development of logical thinking skills and how such skills might best be brought to bear on how young people think. There will be demonstrations and practice of the methods for implementation of these concepts in existing classroom curricula.

Additional information concerning this workshop and other summer quarter offerings may be obtained by contacting the department of philosophical studies at 1-602-2250 or foundations of education at 1-602-3156.

$10 million to $20 million investment on Rt. 157 by St. Elizabeth Medical Edwardsville Intelligencer — A $10 million health-care complex could be built in Edwardsville, starting in the next 12 to 18 months, an administrator of St. Elizabeth Medical Center of Granite City and an Edwardsville businessman report.

The complex could include units for treatment in cancer, chemical dependency and ambulatory illnesses.

A life-care unit, or retirement center for senior citizens, also is being considered.

The center would be built on 30 acres of land near Home Nursery Inc. on Illinois Route 157. The medical center recently purchased the site.

Speaking to the Edwardsville Rotary Club, medical center executive vice-president Ted Ellerman said the hospital is considering an "18 to $10 million commitment" in the city.

No local money is needed for the project, Ellerman said, although the hospital has not completely settled on a financing plan.

The decision to open a center in Edwardsville was based on a marketing study that showed the city was in need of more health services and that Edwardsville residents were not using the Granite City medical center as much as hospital administrators would like.

Ellerman said the Edwardsville project is part of a plan to "diversify" the hospital's services. Other plans include expanding St. Elizabeth's operations out of Illinois.

After addressing Rotarians this month, Ellerman stressed that the $10 million figure he cited was "very, very rough."

He said the actual cost could not be determined until a committee of Edwardsville residents and hospital officials decide what the project would become part of the complex.

Ellerman also told Rotarians that the hospital did not have a timetable for when construction would begin, again saying it depended on how soon a decision was reached on what would be built.

"Something will be built there," Ellerman said later. "The land will not lie idle." Edwardsville National Bank and Trust Co. President John Fruit, acting as chairman of the Edwardsville citizens' committee, said that $10 million to $20 million has been mentioned during discussions of the medical center's plans.

Asked when he thought construction would begin, Fruit said, "I would guess no later than 12 to 18 months from now. That might even be on the long side."

The citizens' group includes businessmen, medical professionals, school and city officials and their wives.

Fruit said the committee will be making visits this month to other cities to view medical units in operation that are similar to those under consideration for Edwardsville.

"We're not the medical experts," Fruit said. "We need to see what some of these things are."

Of the four options being considered, Ellerman said an oncology unit for cancer treatment "is the most tenacious" because the center is not sure if there would be enough demand for such a unit.

He said it was possible that three of the units would be built at once and connected to each other, or that a unit providing only one type of service would be built.

Ellerman said the medical center will be relying on "local input" a great deal to decide what type of facility is built.

Fruit said he has met and will continue to meet with local civic groups to obtain a consensus of what the city wants. Other interested citizens are being encouraged to contact committee members with their suggestions.

Committee members include Holly and Gordon Brock, Joyce and James Buck, Mary Byron, Carlotta and Otis Cowan, Rae and Steve Ellsworth, Joan and Ken Evers, Carol and John Fruit, Jane and Ken Hyten, Vivian and Roy Olive, Anna Lee and Clint Rogers, Betty and Ernest Tsovolaky and Dolores and Otto Wick.

"When you're talking about a $10 million to $20 million project, there are a lot of side benefits in addition to the primary benefit of health service," Fruit said, noting the spinoff effect on the construction industry and employment.

The oncology center would be a new concept and it could be difficult to determine the need for one, Ellerman said.

The life-care unit has drawn interest from the hierarchy of the Sisters of Divine Providence, operators of the Granite City medical center.

And the ambulatory-care unit would almost be a "must" addition to any of the other units, Ellerman said.

Asked when he thought construction would begin, Fruit said, "I would guess no later than 12 to 18 months from now. That might even be on the long side."

The citizens' group includes businessmen, medical professionals, school and city officials and their wives.

Fruit said the committee will be making visits this month to other cities to view medical units in operation that are similar to those under consideration for Edwardsville.

"We're not the medical experts," Fruit said. "We need to see what some of these things are."

Special foster home is sought

A special foster home is needed in the Madison-St. Clair counties area to care for Greg, a 15-year-old victim of child abuse, according to Gail Holzhausen, resource development supervisor with the Illinois Department of Children and Family Services.

Prior to entering the state foster care system in 1980, Greg was shifted from one relative's home to another. Since becoming a ward of the state, he has been in several foster homes.

Although it is the policy of the Department of Children and Family Services to move children only as a last resort, Greg's foster families have asked that he be moved because of his reluctance to accept direction and a general "smart aleck attitude," department social workers said.

Greg's behavior has improved considerably in the past year, according to Phil Lytle, unit supervisor in the Belleville field office.

Greg, who has brown hair, brown eyes and a slight build, is about 5-8 tall, Lytle said.

"Greg is basically a workable kid who is slow to trust after having been rejected so much," he said. "Greg enjoys school, likes animals and is well-mannered."

Because of his recent behavior problems, he is eligible for a new program called professional foster care.

Foster parents taking part in this program are paid $568 per month per foster child, and care for a maximum of two children.

Professional foster parents who deal primarily with teenagers also receive in-depth training and work closely with department social workers.

The department is also recruiting regular foster parents who are paid from $190 to $235 per month depending on the age of the foster child.

Regular foster parents specify the age, sex and number of children they want to work with. They are encouraged not to accept any child who would not fit into their family, Miss Holzhausen said.

The state also pays medical dental, pharmaceutical and book rental fees for foster children.

Area residents interested in caring for Greg or in learning more about the foster home programs may call Shirley Barber here at 876-6985.

Private agency foster parents are to call their local office.

Plants for energy is Alton topic

Mark Kane, Contributing Editor of Organic Gardening Magazine, will speak on the topic of Energy Conservation in Landscaping at First Presbyterian Church, Fourth and Alby streets in Alton, on June 14 at 7:30 p.m.

Kane will cover a range of topics, including optimum setting of arbors and trees for summer shading, the energy advantages of ground covers and the location and spacing of winter wind-breaks. Along with his illustrated diagrams, rules of thumb and technical data, Kane will provide lists of multipurpose plants appropriate to this area.

In the Organic Gardening tradition, Kane will bring special insights on the use of organic techniques for reducing human labor while producing food with energy-conserving plants. This popular topic should be of interest to gardeners, homeowners and many others.

The public is being welcomed to join in the ideas, the discussion, the fellowship and the refreshments.

Rezoning questions raised

Plan Commission Attorney Robert Hennessey this afternoon will discuss the disputed zoning classification of a parcel of property at 2021 Johnson Road, which now displays a commercial zoning sign of Realtor John Krokovich.

The commissioners will meet at 1:15 p.m. on the top floor of city hall, 2000 Edison Ave.

Three years ago, Krokovich successfully took the city to court to obtain commercial status for the residential site after a similar appeal was rejected by both the Plan Commission and the Granite City Council.

Last month, commissioners decided to seek the opinion of their board attorney about the possibility the zoning classification should have reverted back to a residential status. No commercial zoning improvements have been made at the site within the six month limit of the city's zoning ordinance, it was noted.

Commissioners also will consider a petition by Michael E. Hopke, 4010 Rode Ave., for a rezoning classification from the present single-family residential zone to a neighborhood commercial rating. Hopke wants to use the land rezoned to locate a barber shop at the site.

Commissioners also will discuss a tentative zoning reclassification suggested by Attorney Leo Kunzen.

In other action, about eight of 13 Brandon Heights residents turned out at the meeting district meeting last night to listen to the county offer to divide $70,469 among homeowners for the right to easements that are misplaced.

Resident Paul Haldeman said that before homeowners in that area sought legal means for compensation, he had been offered $69 for his easement. A combined county and private appraisal now sets the price of the easement at $8,856. Easement offers vary from $4,000 to $10,200.

Residents have the choice of collectively deciding to accept the cash offer or allowing the district to remove and relocate the misplaced lines. In August 1980, the city of Madison bestowed upon O'Guin the honor of Most Distinguished Citizen.

O'Guin is married and has two children.

Park ID card required for summer program

Because of a change in the registration procedures for the Granite City Park District summer programs, park ID cards will be needed when registering for the various programs.

Park ID cards were not necessary in the past, but will be during registration at the various playgrounds and park facilities on Monday, June 14. Photographs for park ID cards will be taken on Saturday, June 12, at the Wilson Park office, Benton and Oregon streets. The cost of a card is $1.

Those children not having a park ID card at the time of registration for the summer programs will either have to go to the park office to have one made or pay a $7.50 fee, the charge for non-residents who register for the summer programs. Late registrations will be taken for the programs.

There was damage to the front of the northbound auto, which was skidding on wet pavement to avoid a car that had turned left into its path. The Cho vehicle crossed the center line as McBride veered to the right in an effort to avoid being hit. The unidentified turning auto had been immediately in front of McBride's car.

INJURED IN CRASH AT 28TH-MADISON

Gen Cho, 38, Collinsville, was hurt slightly during rain at 1:50 p.m. Wednesday in a collision with the left side of the southbound auto of Dennis McBride, 2307 Lee Ave., on Madison Avenue at 28th Street.

There was damage to the front of the northbound auto, which was skidding on wet pavement to avoid a car that had turned left into its path. The Cho vehicle crossed the center line as McBride veered to the right in an effort to avoid being hit. The unidentified turning auto had been immediately in front of McBride's car.

First Granite City National Bank has asked the Circuit Court to order Thomas R. Brimberry and his wife, Janice, to pay a $105,486 debt, based on an $85,000 loan of June 18, 1981, plus $15,486 interest at a 19 percent annual rate and $5,000 in legal fees. Chief Judge Joseph Barr decided Monday that the bank may seek to recover the funds. An Edwardsville bank also is seeking funds from Brimberry, a trustee who is reviewing accounts of the defunct Stix & Co. stock brokerage; Brimberry was senior vice-president.

The public notice calls property owners' attention to the valuations set by the township assessor.

Taxpayers have 30 days in which to object in writing if they consider their property incorrectly assessed.

Under Illinois law, assessments are intended to be one-third of market value. The nearly $1.5 billion grand total for Madison County in 1981 means that the real estate was worth more than $4.4 billion.

A puff of smoke appears down the street, hangs in the air and, regardless of the connection, the excitement of the parade begins as Doctor Do-Right, the clown, suddenly appears.

Clowns and more clowns in white costumes weave among the children, waving and giving it out! "They're selling something," yells a youngster in shorts and tennis shoes. "No! They're giving it out!" his companion yells back. "I want to catch something," another wails.

After a wait near the parade's expected ending point, it finally approaches in full force. It's 9:10 p.m. Some of the crowd have already waited more than an hour to get good seats close to the curb.

Chief of Police Ronald Veizer waves from a chauffeur's limousine. Superintendent of Streets Mac Warfield waves from another car. Uniformed Alton officers march past in a sea of flags.

The first of the Shriner bands sound off. A tuba player displays Old Glory stretched across the horn's bell.

More Shriners stream down the streets. This time, stopping for marching drills. Alton potentates are chattered behind their troops. And candy from somewhere trickles down on the children.

A flurry of flashing red lights and purposefully loud sirens precede a procession of emergency vehicles. They're rounded up to promote the Shriner circus — led by a red fire engine, followed by a state police car driven by a woman officer.

More motorcycles from the rear of motorcyclists veering in figure eights toward the parade watchers.

Granite City Firefighters wave from flag flutters past and more fire engines come — now with Madison firefighters hanging from the sides and shouting greetings to the onlookers.

Shriners zoom forward in their own Tin Lizzie Patrol cars, displaying even more flags. Then the Long Lake Fire Department and rescue squad.

Formally attired white-suited motorcyclists are applauded as they go through their formations with a flourish.

The bare-armed Shriner takes a swing at a gong on wheels. Closely following, a sword thrower leading the Alton Ordinal Band misses a catch and makes a public display of checking his fingers for injuries. He is followed by long-robed players of unfamiliar musical instruments.

A man walks backwards guiding the double-decked Perry County Shrine Club truck through Madison Avenue trees as those riding on the top level duck tree limbs.

Bagpipe players signal the line of formal theme floats.

A Bowler Trucking Company flatbed truck holds a unique display combining McDonald's Restaurant, Cub Scouts and Kentucky Fried Chicken. It takes first prize for the "Happiest is..." theme.

Explore Scouts wave enthusiastically and while a boy's Daughters signal greetings a bit more stately from their floats.

Elaborately-costumed children are seated at an imaginary birthday party on one float, as the "Happiest is..." theme.

Stage group, singing, follows in another.

Sunbathers lounge on a moving "beach" and others wheelbarrow cleanup brigade, Madison Avenue traffic pushes back into the streets.

About 9 p.m., on the heels of the donkey cart and the wheelbarrow cleanup brigade, Madison Avenue traffic pushes back into the streets.

barrel" to come up with $35,000 to meet its June 18 payroll, the amount required, exclusive of bills.

Additionally, between $20,000 and $30,000 is needed to cover expenses of the July 2 end-of-pay period.

"We need an advance of $40,000 and $50,000 to meet our total payroll expenses in July," Superintendent Vickers explained.

"We won't get our next Corporate Personal Property Tax Replacement check until the end of July, so it looks as if we are going to have to issue tax anticipation warrants next month to carry us over," he added.

"The July CPRT check, projected to be close to $100,000, would see us into the first tax payments," the administrator stated.

He cautioned, however, that previous corporate replacement tax checks, received in installments since January 1982, have been running much less than projected.

In March, the Venice district received only $38,294, or 13 percent less than the $55,094 as projected by the Illinois State Board of Education.

The April check for $60,868 was closer to the projected amount of $63,549, but the May check plummeted downward with only $26,558 received out of a projected $50,839, Supl. Vickers explained.

At the present time, funds received from the replacement tax checks are less than the amount estimated at the start of 1982, he added.

The administrator said the district is expected to receive about $1,000 for special education personnel reimbursement and a small state aid payment within the next month.

Since the Venice School District became bogged down in an ever-widening financial whirlpool 12 years ago, the board has been forced to issue anticipation warrants each year, ranging from a high of $325,000 in the 1978-79 school year to the lowest amount—$144,000, authorized in March 1981.

Such warrants allow the district to borrow money from a bank and repay it from the next year's tax receipts.

The warrants must be repaid prior to the new tax revenue being used for other purposes and, in 1979, the district reached its lowest point when the $235,000 borrowed against the next year's taxes stretched only through April, leaving school officials groping for more income to finance operations and pay salaries through August.

One remedy to alleviate the dismal financial problem was taken in July 1979 when board members authorized the issuance of $223,000 in working cash funds.

Upon the advice of the Illinois School Consultants firm, retained by the district to help resolve its difficulties, the board had abolished the original working cash fund with a $550,000 debt, mostly owing to other district funds, in May 1979.

The possibility of various economic measures designed to trim expenses by combining some grade school classes and some staff positions and eventually consolidating both the grade school and high school into one principal.

The possibility of closing Venice High School and merging the students with another school district was considered by the board at that point, but the idea was discarded after objections were voiced throughout the community.

The biggest problem facing the Venice School District for the past few years and still remaining today is its declining tax base.

Within a decade, the district's assessed valuation dropped from $40.4 million to $20.8 million and is continuing to decline.

Supl. Vickers said the final tax settlement payment from last year's collection now is expected to be $20,451, instead of $81,000, as originally expected by the county clerk.

Tax tended by the county clerk, which collections in the current year will reach about $7 percent.

Last year, the district's settlement was 91.4 percent and in the previous two years, a total of 96.4 and 99.5 percent was received, the administrator said.

He noted about $47,000 in tax obligations have been filled this year by the railroads and some individuals, also reducing district revenue.

Board President Jack R. Tolliver expressed appreciation to everyone for their efforts in helping the district through a "very difficult time."

"We have to give everyone credit for it...administrators and teachers. It is through their concern and through their efforts that we managed to do it," he stated.

In the other business, the board members heard a presentation by Edward Wilson, a field adviser for Tranco, the roofing division of B. F. Goodrich, who had inspected the roofs on the Venice school buildings and found them to be severely "checked," a condition he described as an aging characteristic.

Wilson recommended using the firm's self-reinforcing asphalt emulsion system, which provides an aluminum surface to reflect ultraviolet rays and consequently keeps the building's interior cooler.

He said district employees could receive on-site instruction in the actual work from Tranco, or area contractors asked to bid on the project.

Wilson invited the board to inspect roofs at schools in Belleville and Corp., East Alton, where the system is being applied.

His recommendations were referred to the building committee, headed by Jerry Cicio.

Bids to paint the school's metal window frames were received from Smith Painting Co., Collinsville, and Keck Paint Co., Granite City.

Opened were bids to resurface a 35-by-73-foot playground area at C. D. Peters Co. of Granite City and Bruce Trucking and Excavating of Collinsville.

Due to the difference in specifications and amounts, all four bids were referred to the purchasing committee, headed by George Wade.

Summer science awareness program for high schoolers

Barbara Bernard, Science Awareness counselor at the East St. Louis Center of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, has explained that the Science Awareness Summer Program offers college credit to high school juniors and seniors.

Mrs. Bernard said students of the program must be in the 10th through 12th grade.

"Some of the 11th and 12th grade students will be taking courses for college credit, while students in the 10th grade will be taking college preparatory courses that do not carry college credit," she explained.

The Science Awareness Summer Program offers courses in English, physical science, college algebra and pre-calculus with trigonometry. The program includes cultural, educational and recreational activities for students who are not working during the afternoons.

Registration for the program has been extended through tomorrow.

More information is available from Barbara Bernard at the Science Awareness Program at 1-213-3000, extension 47.

TAXI FARE ARRESTS
Allan L. Kerolov, 42, and Ronald D. Bias, 43, both of 1415 Niedringhaus Ave., were charged late last week with theft of services.

It was alleged they took a St. Louis Yellow Cab from that city to the 2000 block of State Street and then failed to pay the fare. A similar charge was filed against an unidentified woman who took a Granite City Checker taxi from State Park Place to the vicinity of 20th Street.

and Edwardsville Road, which is expected to be completed this year.

Representatives of IDOT explained that in order to facilitate the free flow of traffic and increase the safety to the motoring public, it is necessary to improve the intersection by widening and resurfacing the existing pavement to provide four through traffic lanes of 12 feet minimum width from Rhodes

Broadway underpass will be closed for repairs, traffic will be detoured over Klein Avenue and Bissell Street, but advance work on resurfacing of the detour must be completed by Aug. 1 to allow work to begin on the underpass.

A resolution adopted by the Venice City Council notes that the city of Madison has agreed to resurface the line, two blocks on Bissell, between Weaver and West Second streets, plus repaving the intersection of Klein and Bissell.

The state consented to reimburse Madison 100 percent of the cost of materials used in the resurfacing of the line, estimated at $5,000, upon receipt of an itemized bill.

In conjunction with the resolution, the Madison City Council agreed to sign the document, with the stipulation that the city of Venice provide half of the manpower for the work and Madison provide the equipment as well as half of the manpower.

The councilmen were told that bid specification for the work has been advertised and those received will be opened on June 25, if both cities agree to the arrangement with letters of intent.

In other business, the current bills for David Connole Alpine Village Shopping Center in Madison, totaling $68,980 were submitted and approved for payment from Industrial Revenue Bond funds. The major payout, in the amount of $55,328, is to go to Winfield Construction Co.

Mayor Sasyk announced that the grand opening for the shopping center is scheduled for Saturday, July 17, at 10 a.m. Various activities and special promotions are planned for the event, he added.

A letter was read from the St. Louis Metropolitan Police Department tending appreciation to Police Chief Donald Bricker, Paul Barger and Lt. Bill Papa, for their assistance and known to visit the Madison and Granite City areas, in conjunction with a knifing incident in St. Louis. The wanted person was later located and arrested in Missouri.

In reference to blackout work on Madison streets, Mayor Sasyk advised the aldermen that six employees will be hired for the four- to five-week project. He suggested they try to hire a person from each ward.

There is a need for three truck drivers and he urged the aldermen to make sure the drivers are qualified for that position before names are submitted for consideration. The street commissioner will have the authority to approve or disapprove the names.

Bills submitted for payment and approved by the councilmen were in the amount of $40,811 for the period May 26 through June 8.

Funds to be disbursed are, for the Fire Department, $302; Police Department, $319; Refuse Department, $2,114; Streets and Alleys Department, $793; others, $34,889; Alarm Service Department, $621; Revenue Sharing Fund, $267; Fire Insurance Fund, $1,019; Spec. Improvement Fund, $246; and Motor Fuel Tax Fund, $94.

Approval also was given to a request from the Madison All-Lanka considered for funds from the Revenue Sharing Fund for the fiscal year 1982-83, to continue its program to establish African Culture Training classes.

Concert Choral farewell concert Sunday in St. Louis

The Concert Choral at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville has one last concert in St. Louis, and then the group is off for Europe and the Llangollen International Musical Eisteddfod in Wales.

The Concert Choral is giving a farewell performance at Christ Church Cathedral in St. Louis on Sunday, June 13. The church is located at Eighth and Locust streets, and the concert will begin at 4:45 p.m.

Donations will be accepted from audience members who wish to help defray the costs of the European tour. The concert will include the pieces the Choral will perform at the Eisteddfod, in addition to pieces by Bach, Bruckner, Mendelssohn and other European and American composers.

The Llangollen International Eisteddfod is a festival of about 10,000 singers from 30 countries. The Concert Choral's 52 members will compete in the adult choral competition category in the picturesque little Welsh town.

The competition will be preceded by three weeks of touring and giving concerts in West Germany, Austria, Czechoslovakia, Italy, Switzerland, France and Great Britain.

This is the fourth European Tour for the Concert Choral. Leonard Van Camp, choral activities director, said the tour gives the singers a chance to perform in some of the great European concert halls as well as some of the hometowns of choral composers.

United Way names leaders for next ten years

In an attempt to form stability and continuity within the Tri-Cities Area United Way, volunteer leaders for the next 10 years have been selected. It was announced this week by Bill H. Terrell, president of the United Way Board of Directors.

"In forming a 10-year leadership development program, the local United Way has taken a progressive step forward in planning for future community social health and welfare needs," said Terrell. "The stability and dedication of these volunteers will enhance the autonomy and the growth of our local United Way for years to come," he predicted.

This year, Roger Higgins will serve as chairman with Tom Majewski as vice-chairman. Majewski will be the chairman in 1983, with Eric Robertson as vice-chairman, according to the plan.

Then taking their turns, first as vice-chairman and then as chairman, will be Shirley Adams, Don Shaffner, Darryl Slater, Bob Glik, Paul Raczkiewicz, Drew Karandjeff, Shirley Blasingame and Jack Lee, according to the long-range plan.

Terrell explained, "It was my personal commitment when accepting the position of president of the Tri-Cities Area United Way, Inc. in January, 1982, that I would work aggressively with the board of directors and the executive committee and the many United Way volunteers to provide continuity in establishing future campaign chairmen. I consider all of the volunteers who have committed themselves to the growth of the United Way in this community to be outstanding citizens," he concluded.

BURGULAR RANSACKS
Charles Myers, 2419 Grand Ave., returned home late last week after being gone about one hour and found the front door had been forced open and the dwelling ransacked. Immediately determined as missing were a .38-caliber police special revolver, several rounds of ammunition and a number of coats.

UNITED WAY'S FUTURE. Volunteer leaders for the next 10 years have been selected by the Tri-Cities Area United Way. Each will serve as vice-chairman in the year before they are chairman. Future leaders, and the year in each they will be chairman, are, from the left, Roger Higgins, 1982; Tom Majewski, 1983; Eric Robertson, 1984; Shirley Adams, 1985;

Don Shaffner, 1986; Darryl Slater, 1987; Bob Glik, 1988; Paul Raczkiewicz, 1989; Drew Karandjeff, 1990; Jack Lee, 1992, and the current United Way President, Bill Terrell. Shirley Blasingame, who is to be volunteer chairman in 1991 was not present when the photo was taken.

Honor retirees of GC Post Office

The Granite City Post Office Welfare Committee, comprised of representatives of management, American Postal Workers Union (clerks), National Association of Rural Letter Carriers and the National Association of Letter Carriers, honored retirees recently with a dinner-dance.

The affair was at the Eagles Lodge. Guests of honor were Glenn Bartling and Monte Gray, both of whom retired from the Granite City Post Office in 1981. The gentlemen, both accompanied by their wives, were congratulated by speakers from each craft. Representing management was Dave Franz, supervisor delivery and collection; Clerks, Stan Brown, rural carriers, Mr. Carroll Tingley, and city carriers, Adolph Stanek.

A large crowd of fellow workers, their spouses, as well as past retirees listened as the guests of honor spoke of their experiences during their employment, as well as the relief of retirement.

Prior to their employment at Granite City, both were road clerks (sorted mail in railroad cars in between stops).

This affair is an annual event, one of the few opportunities former and present employees have to meet.

School employee program extended

The employee assistance program in the Granite City school district has been extended to the staff, the Board of Education has concluded in authorizing the program to continue in 1982-83. The projected budget is $2,540. Plans for the coming year include fitness screening and follow-up, $500; a stress workshop, $300; a weight loss program, $300; microcomputer instruction, $240; and a craft workshop, $160.

Allocations of $120 each have been listed for yoga, aerobics and calligraphy, and $100 each for financial planning, legal services and an investment club.

Cardiopulmonary resuscitation will be taught, and $300 has been budgeted for miscellaneous expenses.

The assistance program was launched in 1981-82. Leigh Heller, physical education coordinator, says, "It was well-received and is predicted to be even more popular in the future. We are thankful to Supt. B. J. Davis for his leadership in formulating this innovative program."

She adds, "The results seem to be compatible with the opinion of Jed Best, TENCO (Ten-County Educational Consortium) program director, who is enthusiastic about the scope of our proposal."

"He praises the Granite City schools for seeking ways to bolster employee morale, and he believes this concept is sure to be copied by other public school districts."

Staff members were sent an initial questionnaire to aid in planning the 1981-82 program in accord with their needs and interests.

Activities were grouped as follows:
RECREATION AND FITNESS—Aerobic dance, walking-jogging, and fitness profile screening.
EDUCATION—Cardiopulmonary resuscitation training, microcomputer training, calligraphy, retirement seminar, and insurance benefits.
CRATIS AND HOBBIES—Crocheting, knitting, needlepoint, photography, quilting and role painting.

"One of the most popular offerings was the physical fitness test administered by the Alton YMCA," Miss Heller said in a report to the School Board.

"Each participant was given his or her own fitness evaluation, plus suggestions for improvements and maintenance."

"High blood pressure was found among females in two of 15 aged 35 and younger, one of 15 aged 36-45 and three of 14 aged 46 and older."

"Among males, high blood pressure was found in neither of two in the 35 and under age group, in two of six aged 36-45 and in six of nine who were 46 or older."

"Most of these participants considered themselves to be in good physical shape."

"A follow-up questionnaire was sent to all employees who participated in any activity."

"I am extremely pleased that 32 percent of the responding employees gave the program a 10, the highest rating. Only two persons rated the experience as below average."

"This questionnaire was sent to 153 employee assistance program participants, with 142 responding. Of the 153, a total of 45 reported working at high schools, 75 at elementary schools, 19 at the board office and nine at junior high schools."

"All 142 regard the activity or activities as worthwhile; 136 want the activity repeated."

"Among those who responded, 102 believe additional employees would be interested. On whether the activities should be made available to spouses, 66 said yes and 20 said no. "Spring scheduling of the program was preferred by 28, winter by 26 and autumn by 20; 36 had no preference on the time of year best for you."

"Regarding the importance of continuing the employee assistance program, on a scale of one to ten, 28 said ten, 6 employees said nine, 25 said eight, 18 said seven, 7 gave a rating of six, 5 said five, 1 said four and 1 said three, with no one rating the importance as less than three on a scale of ten."

Mayors back attorney general's intervention in IP rate hike

The Southwestern Illinois Council of Mayors of Madison, St. Clair, and Monroe counties adopted a resolution at its regular meeting on May 26, supporting the efforts of the Illinois Attorney General to intervene in the current Illinois Power Company electric rate hike of $141 million.

The Council has previously expressed its opposition to further increases in electric power rates; particularly those related to the construction cost of the Clinton Nuclear Power Plant.

The resolution adopted by the Council opposes any action by the Illinois Commerce Commission to increase the rate of return in Illinois Power Company's base rate.

It also encourages the Attorney General to include the Council's concerns in his preparation of input to the Illinois Commerce Commission proceedings on Illinois Power Company's request.

The Council has, through the resolution, offered to provide any necessary assistance to the Attorney General's office needed to prepare an effective presentation of the Council's position.

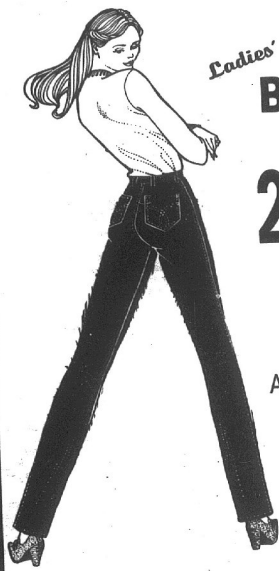

The Council of Mayors has opposed any additional electric rate increases over the past several months, and has actively supported efforts to create an elected

Illinois Commerce Commission. These actions have been taken to lessen the impact of increasing utility costs on local government operations and the residents of Southwestern Illinois communities.

Q. For quite a few years I've claimed only one exemption for income tax withholding purposes, although I'm legally entitled to four. I usually get a refund which I look upon as an extra cash or a bonus. These days, I could certainly use the extra cash now, rather than later. Is it generally a good practice to have an employer take out a higher amount of withholding tax than necessary.

A. When your employer has been authorized (by you) to withhold more than is necessary from your paycheck, you are literally giving the Internal Revenue Service the use of your money, the use of your money, your refund never carries an interest payment with it. In most cases, the wiser course is to figure as closely as possible what your tax liability will be, and ask your employer to withhold only what is necessary, in order to meet that liability. Then, put that extra money to work earning interest, for you in one of several interest-earning and available savings accounts.

Brittan named associate dean of graduate school

Gerald M. Brittan, who has been serving as a senior program and evaluation analyst for science and education administration at the U.S. Department of Agriculture in Washington, D.C., has been named associate dean for research in the Graduate School at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Brittan has assumed the position formerly held by David Brown, who accepted a position with the University of Nebraska in Lincoln.

In Washington, Brittan was responsible for evaluating the economic, social, environmental and other impacts of past, current and future food and agricultural science and education programs — both federal and non-federal — on Washington while on leave from Northwestern University, where he had held the position of assistant professor of anthropology since 1975.

Brittan, who received his baccalaureate and advanced degrees from Columbia University in New York, conducted the field work for his Ph.D. degree in a small Newfoundland village, studying social, economic and ecological changes, under a grant from the National Institute of General Medical Sciences.

From 1976-77, under a $75,000 grant from the National Academy of Sciences, Brittan served as co-director and consultant and principal investigator analyzing federal technological innovation policies. In 1978, with a $670,000 grant from the National Institute of Mental Health, Brittan served as co-director and developer of Northwestern's Program in Ethnography and Public Policy, a research and training program that closely integrates the skills of both academically and non-academically-based professionals in preparing pre- and post-doctoral students for applied careers.

Brittan has been involved in two other major research projects. In 1979, under a grant from the American Bar Association, he worked as a consultant and principal investigator conducting an ethnographic evaluation of the ABA's "Law and Humanities" project. And in 1980, with a grant from the Agency for International Development, he served as a consultant and principal investigator assessing the program and policy utility of AID's Program Evaluation System.

Brittan has published numerous professional articles, books and reports. With Ronald Cohen, he co-edited "Hierarchy and Society: Anthropological Perspectives on Bureaucracy," which was selected by Choice magazine as one of the outstanding academic books of 1980-81.

At SIUE, Brittan will also hold the rank of associate professor on anthropology. His general research interests include social and cultural dynamics in complex societies, especially in formal organizations and bureaucracies; decision-making in economic and ecological contexts; directed social change; and the planning and evaluation of social, economic and educational programs.

A native of Chicago, Brittan plans to reside in Edwardsville. He is married and has one son.

Dr. O'Neill-Gieszelmann is married to James B. Gieszelmann of Granite City. She is the daughter of the late Patrick O'Neill and Mrs. Patrick S. O'Neill of Alton. She attended Alton Senior High School. Her bachelor's degree in biology was earned at the University of Notre Dame, Notre Dame, Ind. How to save money on your grocery bills

Here are some important shopping tips

- 1—Check specials in food store advertisements.
- 2—Get to know the butcher and produce manager.
- 3—Find out when deliveries of perishables are made and shop on those days. Fresher foods last longer and consequently, you'll waste less.
- 4—Learn to estimate accurately the amounts of food needed. Keep a record of the amount of food you throw away in a week. It may alert you to ways you can reduce waste.
- 5—For economy and variety, use eggs, dry beans, and peanut butter in place of meat some of the time. These foods provide protein and most other nutrients that meat supplies.
- 6—Use nonfat dry milk, which is less expensive than fluid milk, at least part of the time in cooking and as a beverage.
- 7—By law, economy sizes of non-fat items must save you at least 5% over other sizes of the same brand.
- 8—Try to shop as seldom as possible, preferably once a week.
- 9—Always shop with a well thought out shopping list. Try to base your list of foods on your menu for the week.
- 10—Take advantage of the special coupon offers going on at First Granite City Savings in conjunction with your local Schnuck's grocer.

Study to determine effects of early milking

SUIC COUNTRY
COLUMN
By GORDON
BILLINGSLEY

Dairy farmers have always liked to get an early start, but Devon Hamilton has taken that propensity a bit farther than most.

Hamilton, a graduate student in dairy science in the Southern Illinois University-Carbondale School of Agriculture, has taken to milking some of the cows in his charge so early that they still are pregnant; she milks them up to eight days before calving.

The idea is to study the effects of such milking habits on the productive and reproductive efficiency of cows, said Hamilton, who is working on the project with SUIC dairy specialist David Harmon.

Initial indications are that premilking cows may improve a herd's efficiency, she said.

Modern dairy production techniques have put a lot of pressure on cows to produce, Hamilton said.

That pressure is sometimes quite literally manifested in cows' udders, where it can damage tissues and reduce production.

"If such excess pressure were not present prior to a cow's calving, she might milk at a higher level following calving," Hamilton said.

"In addition, if the cow were premilked, the probable reduction in stress might help her recover from calving more rapidly."

The effect of prepartum milking on milk production and udder edema, or swelling, was investigated to some extent 40 years ago when production levels were about one-third of levels today. Interest has mounted recently because many cows now are milking in excess of 20,000 pounds per year," she said.

Hamilton and Harmon's study of cows and heifers at the SUIC Dairy Center showed that premilked animals tended to produce more milk than their conventionally milked herd-mates.

"Milk production through the first 16 days of lactation favored those heifers and cows that were milked prior to calving," Hamilton said.

"They tended to peak earlier."

"Levels of production tended to be the same for premilked and non-premilked heifers and cows later in lactation. Over the course of a whole 10-month lactation, milking levels apparently were similar."

"There was a strong economic advantage for premilked cows and heifers, however, because they were rebred sooner and with fewer services," Hamilton noted.

Conventionally milked heifers, in fact, required more than twice as many services per conception as premilked heifers, she said.

PROUD OF AWARDS, these honorees in the elementary division of the Madison County Farm Bureau's safety essay contest display their certificates. The contest, based upon the theme, "Why Buckle Up?" was sponsored by the Farm Bureau's Women's Committee. From the left are Tabitha Tiek of Highland and Lea Lambert of Edwardsville, who tied for third place, Jeanette Oroboski of Granite City, second place, and Jennifer Ruder of Granite City, first place. The contest was open to all Madison County students in grades one through 12.

How to deal with old office records studied

If old records are piling up and out of your office, and you can't throw them away, then a workshop at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville on July 14, 15 and 16 is for you, according to Lynn Dieterich, coordinator of the university's Office of Continuing Education.

The workshop is entitled, "Successful Records Management through Micrographics Techniques." It will teach participants to store records on microfilm and set up systems for easy retrieval and reproduction of the record or document.

Micrographics techniques save time, money and office space, Mrs. Dieterich believes. She said the workshop will deal with all aspects of micrographics which an organization needs to implement the system.

Participants will become familiar with purchasing equipment, using the system to reproduce legal copies of documents and setting up indexing and retrieval systems for records.

Participants may stay at Tower Lake Apartments at SIUE for the evenings of July 15 to 16 and have meals and all course materials provided for a fee of $150. The workshop will be held at the university's Wagner Complex. If participants don't need housing, the fee for meals and materials is $120.

The workshop begins at 8 a.m. Wednesday, July 14, and concludes at 4 p.m. Friday, July 16. The course is limited to 20 participants. Margene M. Edwards, head of Micro Records at SIUE, will conduct the workshop. She has 10 years of experience in the field of micro records and records management and is the recipient of the 1980 Otalen Award for Excellence in Records Management.

Registration must be received before July 9. Early registration is advised, due to limited available space.

For more information on the workshop and registration, interested persons may call 1-692-3210.

Receives degree at Western Ill.

A 1978 graduate of Granite City High School North, she previously earned an associate degree in Law Enforcement from Belleville Area College in 1980.

Miss Flaughter, 21, spent one semester of her senior year in a special internship program with the Madison County Sheriff's Department.

As part of her internship, she participated in most phases of the county sheriff's operational activities, including patrol work, juveniles, criminal investigation, jail duty and the transportation of prisoners. Miss Flaughter was employed by Wolf Manufacturing Co. in Granite City while attending BAC. She has applied for a permanent position with the county sheriff's department.

Course studies American Indians

The department of philosophical studies at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville will offer a two-week symposium on the American Indian.

The course, The American Indian — History and Philosophy (HUM 400-4), will meet on weekdays from 1 until 4:35 p.m., beginning June 14 and running through June 25.

The course should be of special interest to teachers of history, literature, sociology and psychology, as well as anyone who has an interest in the language, culture and philosophy of the American Indian.

Courses will involve the examination of the history, development, world views and child-rearing practices of the American Indian. Works to be discussed during the two-week period include Dee-Brown's "Bury My Heart at Wounded Knee" and John G. Neihardt's "Black Elk Speaks."

Instructor for the symposium will be George W. Linden, professor of philosophical studies at the university. Linden grew up on the Great Plains and is a native of South Dakota. At the University of Missouri, he studied with Neihardt, poet and author of several books relating to Indians and the West.

Linden was invited to address the South Dakota Humanities Council on "Understanding Cultural Diversity" in 1976. This address was published in "Perspectives on South Dakota" the following year. He has presented papers before the South Dakota History Conference and given numerous lectures on film and American Indians at various South Dakota universities.

Additional information may be obtained by contacting the SIUE department of philosophical studies at 1-692-2250.

WARRANT SERVED
Robert D. Melson, 28, of 3869 Rodney Drive, was arrested in the 2600 block of Grand Avenue during the weekend and charged with disorderly conduct. An outstanding warrant alleging failure to appear in court on a charge of driving under the influence of alcohol also was served.

An officer reported seeing Melson lying on the pavement and helped him up. The man began staggering around a nearby house, where the occupant said he didn't know Melson.

After a verbal exchange with the officer, who was unable to determine Melson's last name at the time, the man was taken into custody.

Harrassment by phone charged

Howard L. Tomlin, 51, of 2148 Adams St., was charged with harrassment by telephone when arrested at 1:25 p.m. Saturday at the Tip Top Tavern, 1746 State St. Police went to the tavern after being called by Rhea Plowier, 725 Twenty-Seventh Place, who stated she had received three telephone calls from her former husband (Tomlin) who had made threats against her and used obscene names. Tomlin, who allegedly admitted making the calls, was arrested. He was released on payment of a $102 cash bond.

Troop 328 awards banquet

Members of Cadette Girl Scout Troop 328, held a mother-daughter awards banquet at Frohardt School. The girls served as hostesses for the dinner, where recognitions were awarded for work done during this past school year.

Anne Voyles, Cheryl Lenzi and Lisa Jackson received their First Class rank. Three years ago when they started work toward first class, it was the highest rank in Girl Scouting. The older girl program now offers a higher rank, the Girl Scout Gold Award, which the girls will now start working toward. Jill Kinder earned the Girl Scout Silver Award, which is the highest rank in Cadette Scouting on the new program. Jill will also start work on the Gold Award now.

The Silver Leadership pin was awarded to Rhonda Allen, Kelly Evans, Dineen Griffin, Jill Kinder, Elizabeth Griffin, and Cheryl Swift. Rhonda, Elizabeth and Cheryl Lenzi were recognized for serving as program aides to younger troops, and Anne Voyles, Cheryl Lenzi and Chris Loyel received service bars for serving as camp aides.

The troop spent most of this school year working toward their Challenge of Being a Girl Scout. The final activity for this award is the ceremony to "bridge" the community service project designed and carried out by the girls. For this project, the girls washed windows, free, at the Anchorage

Housing Project for senior citizens

The following girls earned the Challenge of Being a Girl Scout pin: Rhonda Allen, Becky Bonvicino, Dineen Griffin, Pat Hahn, Gina Hahn, Jill Kinder, Shelly Nash, Danae Oliver, Becky Palovich, Jaimee Patterson, Elizabeth Stark, Kris Bausch, Kathy Hahn, Lisa Jackson, Cheryl Lenzi, Chris Loyel, and Anne Voyles.

One of the other major activities for the year has been work toward the Dreams to Reality careers patch. For this patch the girls explored the many different careers available. Those receiving the patch were Rhonda Allen, Nikki Bausch, Dineen Griffin, Pat Hahn, Gina Hahn, Jill Kinder, Shelly Nash, Danae Oliver, Becky Palovich, Jaimee Patterson, and Elizabeth Stark.

Elizabeth Stark also received the Creative Cooking Interest Project patch. The members finalized plans for their upcoming troop extended trip to Chicago. Itineraries for the 5-day trip were given to their mothers.

At the end of the evening the seventh and eighth grade girls presented a "Scout's Own" ceremony on the meaning of the Girl Scout law. The ninth grade girls followed with a candlelight ceremony to "bridge" the eighth graders into senior girl scouting.

Leaders for Troop 328 are Diana Kinder and Joan Stark.

Sara Walker, a cousin of the groom, and Jay Simpson, served as the flower girl and ring bearer. She was dressed in a long lilac frock and carried a basket of cherry blossoms and baby's breath.

Kent Monick attended the groom as best man. Jeff Fader, John Daniels, Mark Roderick, Frank and Jay Verdu, brothers of the groom, were groomsmen.

Seating the guests were Brian Mainer, a cousin of the bride, and Scott Lamber, the bride's brother-in-law.

Both young people graduated from North High School. The bride is employed at Hudson Jewelers Ltd. of Bellemore Village and the groom works at National Marine Service.

Grads honored at school banquet

Sacred Heart-St. Joseph's School hosted a pre-graduation banquet for 29 graduating students, their parents and teachers in the school cafeteria last week. The class colors, red and white, decorated the cafeteria and a banner displaying the class motto, "Look Ahead, Not Behind," was the main decoration. Silhouettes of each graduate accented the banner. Snappy graduate favors and miniature bouquets and girl graduates served as the main table setting. At each adult setting, a white rolled-up diploma explained the menu and the evening's program presented by the graduates.

All graduates were seated at the main table as guests of honor and were presented class-composed booklets, illustrated by Kathleen Boyer and Jeff Kittel. The booklets contained the names of class officers, class colors, class motto, members of Student Council members and the class histories of Sacred Heart-St. Joseph's. Before dinner, Jeff Kittel, class president, welcomed guests and the Rev. James Shortall offered the opening prayer.

Mrs. Judy Bucach, eighth grade teacher, presented the following class officers with awards: Jeff Kittel, class president; Donald Dagonis, vice-president; Joseph Boyd, sergeant-at-arms; Roberto Gonzalez, treasurer; Valeria Garcia, secretary; and Jim Harper, corresponding secretary.

50 complete SIUE's first four-year dental curriculum

Fifty dentists in the first graduating class to complete the four-year curriculum at Southern Illinois University School of Dental Medicine received the doctor of dental medicine degree at commencement exercises Saturday at the University Center.

The School also awarded certificates to four post-doctoral students completing the one-year General Practice Residency Program. The ceremonies were held in Meridian Ballroom on the Edwardsville campus.

Members of the class of 1982 and post-doctoral students included Steven M. Hoffman and Bruce E. Rotter, both of Granite City.

THE BIG MOMENT. Dentists in the seventh graduating class at the School of Dental Medicine of Southern Illinois University, but the first to ever complete SIUE's four-year dental program, leave Meridian Ballroom after receiving doctor of dental medicine or post-doctoral certificates during the weekend. The commencement speaker, Dr. Diego Redondo, vice-chairman of the Illinois Board of Higher Education, told the graduates that their degrees are a tool to help serve humanity and challenged them to use the degrees to attack hunger and poverty with the same zeal they had used to pursue their degrees.

Income tax, lottery help Ill. balance

A surge in state income tax revenues, lottery proceeds, and surplus monies in special funds have helped bolster the available balance in Illinois general funds, State Comptroller Roland W. Burris reports.

The available balance in general funds is $195 million, $53 million more than on April 30 and $7 million less than the balance of $202 million at the end of May one year ago.

Total general revenues in 11 months of fiscal 1982 were $7,544 billion, $228 million or 3.1 percent higher than in the same period last year. General expenditures were $7,544 billion, up $42 million or 0.6 percent.

Burris said revenues from state sources increased by $251 million or 4.2 percent over last year, led by:

—State income tax receipts, up $140 million or 5.7 percent (individual income taxes up $141 million, and corporate down $1 million or 0.2 percent).

—Lottery fund transfers, up $68 million.

—Transfer of $45 million from special funds.

Federal funds for Illinois decreased by $23 million or 1.7 percent in the period. Cigarette tax receipts were down $8 million, sales tax revenues down $4 million, and liquor tax receipts down $2 million.

Burris said, "Looking at expenditures for the 11-month period, public aid continues to be in a state of change. Aid to dependent children grants were up $50 million and general assistance was up $41 million, but medical assistance grants were down $25 million.

"Though the state has been spending more than its income for most of the current fiscal year, that gap has been narrowed by cutbacks in the state's contributions to teachers' and state employees' retirement funds. To date, the amount of the cutbacks totals $119 million for fiscal 1982."

Precoat Metals builder awarded

The contractor and builder of the Precoat Metals Plant in Granite City has received two national awards for the design and construction of the facility.

Ralph Korte Construction Company of Highland is the contractor. The Metal Building Dealers Association presented RKC with one of 13 national awards at their 17th Annual Metal Building Systems Industry Exposition in Houston, Texas.

The award for the Precoat Metals project was for "special Achievement in Construction."

Varco-Pruden Buildings of Memphis, Tenn. presented RKC with their "Hall of Fame" award for the Precoat Metals plant. The award, which recognizes excellence in craftsmanship and construction, was presented at a meeting in San Diego, Calif. RKC received the award in competition with more than 700 builders across the United States.

Precoat Metals, a division of Chromalloy American Corporation, produces coated flat coil steel used in the metal building industry.

The 100,000 sq. ft. plant has two 85-ft. towers and was designed to accommodate heavy processing equipment and four 20 ton cranes. The plant was built with an explosion proof wall in the chemical and paint storage area and with waste heat recovery and waste water treatment systems to meet today's ecological requirements.

80 years young, Press-Record keeps up-to-date with newspaper technology and it has a local, caring staff

The Press-Record was pleased to be featured on South-Western Cable Television this week. Now in its 80th year of service to the area that includes Granite City, Madison, Venice, Pontoon Beach and Mitchell, the Press-Record has a long, "care" tradition of community betterment. But as the 30-minute television program made clear, Quad-City's local newspaper is not resting on its laurels. Few publications anywhere in the world are as up-to-date, as well-equipped as the Press-Record.

PEOPLE—Every department of the newspaper is staffed by persons—journalists, marketing specialists and printing technicians—who combine an energetic, hard-working attitude with years of experience and familiarity with their jobs and their home town.

KNOW-HOW—The Press-Record does not merely "fill up the space." It thoughtfully packs together a neat, newsworthy package designed to keep Quad-City citizens well informed about their home town, their region and their state.

QUALITY—Skilled men and women add their personal touch, their craftsmanship, their concern for detail and accuracy, to the fast-paced, computerized, automated realm of newspapering, 1982-style. They create a creative feeling from what they do. The Press-Record respects them (in contrast to some publications' unfortunate belief that employees are expendable and worth only "a dime a dozen").

TECHNOLOGY—The Press-Record's plant contains a color press capable of high-speed production. The 56-page Goss Ultralite offset press makes cuts, folds and bundles many thousands of newspapers each hour it is in use. Emphasis is placed on the clarity and attractiveness of pictorial, news and advertising pages.

GROWTH—An addition was under construction at the time of the Press-Record's 75th anniversary observance in the spring of 1978, and still another addition has been built since. The facilities dominate the panorama of business buildings in the 1800 block of Delmar Avenue in Granite City.

CARING—Through their participation and interest in the doings of Quad-City organizations, churches, teams, unions, schools, agencies and service clubs, Press-Record staffers keep in close touch with news developments. Because of such involvement and reporting, Press-Record readers are better able to cope with the complex, sometimes confusing times in which they live.

THOROUGHNESS—When Press-Record articles and advertisements say it, Quad-City residents, employees and shoppers sit up and take notice. Delmar Avenue is busy on many occasions, but especially so each Monday afternoon and Thursday afternoon when a new edition of the Press-Record is born, sold and distributed. TIMELINESS—Nobody else comes close to the Press-Record's ability to demonstrate consistently and dependably to deliver news of late-breaking governmental decisions and other news developments that directly affect taxpayers, consumers and families, recreation and sports. Nowhere else can Quad-Cityans find the same kind of in-depth coverage of crime and crime trends, accidents, deaths, births, marriages, divorces, board and council debates, lawsuits, trials, election dialogue, community campaign data, school events and many other "people's" aspirations, recreation opportunities, planning-zoning hearings, fires, windstorms, waterway disasters, shipping, port activity, military and naval activities, highway and utility rates and services, financial institutions and rates, health topics, highway and bridge traffic news, welfare and self-help undertakings, railroad modernization and expansion, and the local impact of municipal, county, metropolitan area, Illinois and federal legislation.

As noted earlier, what affects and interests Quad-Cityans will always be what is important to the Press-Record. Wide public knowledge of public matters is essential if democracy is to function as it should. We are dedicated to providing the news articles and commentary that help make U.S. founding fathers' ideal a living, breathing reality here every Monday and Thursday.

But we face the months and years ahead with confidence; we are going to "keep on keeping on," as it is said in "The Wiz" musical. And we are happy that cable TV viewers have had an opportunity this week to get a glimpse of how we do our jobs and produce the Press-Record.

(Additional insight into how newspapers are carrying out their duties these days is provided by the accompanying guest editorial from the Bloomington, Ind., Herald Times.)

Paper attuned to needs and interests of its community

Bloomington, Ind., Herald Times—The good old "laissez faire" days for the newspaper business are gone.

Newspapers today aren't the only link between people and the world. In the rush of time and progress, we run the risk of being overrun by the future or, worse yet, ignored as irrelevant by the public—crowded out by other activities.

In short, we must fight to earn our place in people's lives and to earn our indispensability in the marketplace, just like the stores and the products we advertise have to fight for their place in the sun.

We are a product that has to be marketed and sold like any other product, service or idea. We have all the ingredients required for producing and marketing our product. The need is to channel all our efforts cooperatively, constructively and efficiently toward producing one product, serving one public and contributing to one "bottom line."

Total cooperation and reinforcement by every department and employee must be our major goal.

The entire newspaper is information—some called hard news, some called soft news, some called advertising. Research tells us each is equally important to the reader. There are no second-class citizens on a newspaper. We all have to be sales and marketing oriented.

Reporters must realize they must sell the usefulness and relevancy of the information in every story they write. Editors must realize the headline they write must sell the story. Makeups must realize they must point toward simple, clear and attractive page graphics.

The whole newsroom must look at today's front page and ask, "Would I buy this newspaper? Would I buy this newspaper? Would I buy this newspaper?"

Circle managers must realize there is no such thing as telling carriers or district managers to get more subscriptions; they must plan the sales approach and know must realize that customers as well as employees react well to good business smilingly applied.

Management must realize today's marketing climate requires good people creating a good newspaper every day and addressing the interest of today's public.

Reunion should be more than a booze party

To the Editor:

Many people look forward to their class reunion. I did, too, until I found out that it's going to be nothing less than a loud booze party. For (our) reunion, a rock band will be playing. I was told by a planning committee member, in so many words, that it took some doing, but the bar hours were extended to make it a better party.

I thought that as we grew older, we also grew wiser. I, for one, have learned from my past. I did my share of drinking, partying, etc., but I not come neatly packaged in a quart, a six-pack or a 12-pack.

Happiness only comes when you know you are at peace with God; when your giving have been forgiven completely because of Jesus Christ.

No, I'm not ashamed to say I'm saved, born-again, Spirit-filled, or any of the other labels that associate me with the King of Kings and Lord of Lords.

I am ashamed of much of my past and my influence on those who used to be around with me. But two years ago, I asked for forgiveness and it was granted, and it was complete, and it was free.

It has been 10 years since graduation and I've come a long way. How long has been for you, and how far have you come?

Resurfacing of nearly a half mile of Route 111 south of Route 162 near Horseshoe Lake at a cost of $130,837 was among 120 projects throughout the state for which bids have been opened by the Illinois Department of Transportation. Apparent low bids on all of the projects total more than $46 million.

The Route 111 project, the only Quad-City area work in the current round of bidding, includes resurfacing, 42 ft. of mile of pavement, starting one-fourth of a mile south of Route 162 and continuing south to three-fourths of a mile north of Horseshoe Lake Road.

MacIair Asphalt Co., Inc., of Collinsville is the apparent low bidder at $130,837. IDOT officials will consult with MacIair to determine the accuracy and acceptability of the bid before awarding a contract for the work.

ITEM IN ERROR

A news item listing Robert B. Clark, 38, of 2828 W. 20th St., as having been arrested for possession of cannabis was in error. An administrative mix-up led to Clark being named on an arrest slip, rather than a youth who was arrested and released.

The Press-Record regrets the error.

Feels ERA includes the draft

To the Editor:

Should the Equal Rights Amendment be passed, or should it not? ERA is one of the most controversial issues of our time.

As I see it, the idea of ERA is ridiculous. I mean, women have the same rights as the men do, so what's the point of evolving the "equal rights" thing when we already have equal rights?

What, exactly, are you fighting? You women want the same pay as a man gets, for doing a certain job. Okay, I agree with that, but where I live, the women get the same pay for a given job.

Some women get the pay and don't do the work. They say, "I'm a woman, I don't have to do any work," or "It's too heavy for me." Then, ladies, move over and give that jobless man with a wife and children at home a chance to work.

Since you women (with the exception of teenage working mothers) took a needy man's job unnecessarily, does that also mean you are willing to sign up for the draft?

All you women for ERA, seriously, ask yourself the question: Are you yourself, willing to be drafted for war, if there is one?

Of older ladies, who want power over men, are you willing to be drafted? If not, how can you rightly subject the youngest, 16 to 22 years old, just becoming young ladies, to the fear of being drafted?

Think of your daughters, nieces, and granddaughters. Would you like to see them come home after the war, leg missing? It's not a pretty sight. They have the same right to choose their way of life as you did at their age.

Think over carefully what has been said. Then, if you still want equal rights, which you already have, you ERA ladies sign a petition, saying you are for ERA, no matter your age. Hand it to President Reagan. You ladies can be the ones to go to war, I strongly urge you to think seriously about what has been said here.

Three-fifths rule not fair

To the Editor:

It is interesting to notice that the two factors concerning the welfare of women are interrelated: The Equal Rights Amendment seeks to promote equal wages and fair economic opportunity for women and, in 1972, the Illinois legislature ruled the passage of a bill that there would no longer be a simple majority needed to pass a bill (used since 1818), but henceforth a three-fifths (60 percent) vote majority would pass all future laws.

Today, on the average, women work full-time are paid only 50 cents for every dollar men are paid. In Illinois, the only northern state not yet ratifying the ERA, legislators seem to have economic and political pressures upon them to defeat the Equal Rights Amendment.

In a world where freedom is being defined against totalitarianist styled dictums, let us hope that our Illinois governor and legislators will respect the democratic and economic needs of women, and change the three-fifths majority rule back to the more democratic simple majority that reflects the will and welfare of more people.

We hope our Illinois governor and legislators will honor democratic interests and the spirit of Abraham Lincoln.

Bi-State names executive director

The selection of Manuel C. De La O as executive director of the Bi-State Development Agency has been announced by James S. Nations, chairman of the agency's Board of Commissioners.

De La O, age 41, succeeds former St. Louis Mayor John P. Packer, who served as interim director from Sept. 21, 1981, to March 31, 1982. The position has been unoccupied since that time while a search for a permanent director has taken place.

De La O will serve as the chief administrative officer of Bi-State, which operates a 128-route public transportation system in the Missouri-Illinois area centering upon St. Louis. Bi-State, which employs approximately 2,000 persons also owns and operates the Bi-State Parks general aviation airport in St. Louis, including the local port.

The agency, based upon a broad interagency compact, has a variety of other interests such as development of a large industrial park at the airport and implementation of a resource recovery project which will convert trash into energy.

The new executive director will coordinate the overall operation of the agency which has two basic divisions. The transit division consists of the public transportation system which serves the area, and is managed by Michael Setzer, general manager of transit. The development division consists of all the other activities including the airport, port, arch and others and is managed by John Booth, general manager of development. Both Setzer and Booth will report to De La O.

De La O is a professional management consultant. His background includes experience in personnel and equal employment opportunity programs, professional development, public affairs, human resources and intelligence operations.

Since 1980, he has been president and owner of ABATIS Management Consulting Firm, in St. Louis. He served as a consultant to the city of St. Louis, including a comprehensive training program for the mayor.

Between 1977 and 1980, he was human relations manager for the U.S. Army Troop Support and Aviation Materiel Readiness Command in St. Louis. In that position, he was responsible for overall management of human resources programs for three major federal agencies.

De La O handled miscellaneous assignments with the National Security Agency, the Central Intelligence Agency and the Department of Defense Intelligence from 1969 to 1977. He was director and manager of compartmented projects involving Korea, Vietnam, Latin America, West Germany and the United States.

De La O is a Ph.D. candidate in public policy management at St. Louis University and holds a master's degree in management from Webster College. He received his bachelor's degree in Latin American studies from the University of Nebraska in Omaha.

He is active in the community, now serving on the Governor's Committee on State Hispanic Affairs. He has served on the city of St. Louis Mayor's Committee on Race Relations, and as vice-president and a commissioner of Bridgeton Athletic Association.

As Bi-State executive director, De La O's salary will be in the $50,000 range, plus customary fringe benefits. His appointment, on a non-contractual basis, was effective Monday.

Christian Scientists hold annual meeting in Boston

Christian Scientists from around the United States and from many countries overseas heard the church's leaders appeal Monday, June 7, for greater attention to spiritual courage in the face of the world's present dangers.

"We face threats of conflict and the brutality of war," acknowledged Michael B. Thorne, chairman of The Christian Science Board of Directors at the denomination's 87th annual meeting in Boston.

"There is a great yearning throughout the world for the elimination of nuclear dangers. The only answer to this yearning," he said, "comes from an understanding of God and divine power. It unflinchingly guides thought and action toward solutions not yet seen."

Several thousand members of The First Church of Christ, Scientist in Boston, were present for the meeting which included three inspirational sessions as well as reports by church officers as to the group's publishing, membership and informational activities. The church was reported free of debt and was planning an expansion of "secondary" use of its newspaper, The Christian Science Monitor, through print and radio syndication and, in a television news format test program.

Mr. Thorne told members: "Christendom, has its work cut out for it in these times. And Christian Scientists must do their part with courage, wisdom and much love."

Dorothy E. Klein, a practitioner and teacher of Christian Science from Boston, was named church president for 1982-83. She told members it was time to meet the challenge of materialism through "cherishing spirituality and guarding individual integrity of thought."

He was fined $25 on the new charge at 2:20 p.m. Tuesday and was held on bond on the other counts.

Tigers defeat Red Devils 6-4, advance to state

SECTIONAL CHAMPS. Edwardsville Tigers pitcher Brian Clawson, with arm extended, after their 6-4 victory over Murphysboro

Wednesday in the Granite City South sectional championship game. The Tigers will meet Elk Grove today at Springfield-Lanphier.

CARLYLE — Heroes are made everyday.

Yesterday, Edwardsville High School's Brian Clawson catapulted himself into hero status as he struck out seven of 10 Murphysboro batters in the final three innings to give the Tigers a 6-4 victory in the continued Granite City South Class AA Sectional baseball game. The victory secured the Tigers a position in state competition which resumes this afternoon. The Tigers, 22-23, will meet Elk Grove, 17-8, at 4 p.m. at Springfield-Lanphier's Robin Roberts Field.

The game, suspended from last Monday because of South's rain-soaked Varsity Field, was moved to Carlyle where the field conditions were better. Wednesday's continued game lasted slightly more than 20 minutes. The brevity of the game can be attributed directly to two factors: relief pitching and relief pitching.

Clawson, who celebrated his 17th birthday with the victory over Murphysboro, was devastating. Murphysboro's Tim Flanagan, who relieved Doug Lyerla, did an equally fine job, striking out three of Edwardsville's six batters in the final innings.

"Clawson has really pitched a heck of a game for us today," said Tiger coach Tom Pile. "His curve ball has improved immensely and his velocity has increased 75 percent since the beginning of the season."

"When we came today, we didn't know if we were going with (Derrick) Mosley or Clawson. Mosley complained of some stiffness in his arm, consequently we went with Clawson," Pile said.

Mosley pitched against Collinsville in Edwardsville's 4-1 victory in the semi-final game, and relieved Pat Braun in Monday's suspended game.

"Derrick's been doing a lot of pitching for us lately, and he's been sore. I'm not going to pitch a kid if he's not 100 percent," Pile said. "If possible we want to save him Mosley, if we won here. I think we'll be going with him tomorrow."

It was obviously a big day for Clawson.

"I can't remember feeling this good. What a birthday," Clawson said. "If we do anything, I hope we get at least as far as 6-12 or by calling (314) 631-7114."

as my brother's team did," said the lanky Tiger hurler. His brother, Tim, was a member of the 1980 baseball team that fell to Collinsville in the state championship game.

"I told the guys we were going to state after our double header with Carbondale at the end of our regular season," Pile said. "I believed it then and they believe it now."

By NANCY WEIL
of the Press-Record

Two members of the Venice High School girls' softball team have been named All-Conference in the Illini-Gateway Conference for the 1982 season.

Jackie Chatman, a sophomore catcher, and Rosetta Harmon, a freshman who played second base, were named to All-Conference honors.

Miss Harmon, led the team at bat with a .671 average. She was the only freshman named All-Conference. Miss Chatman, the cleanup batter, finished the season with a .585 average.

"Jackie's a long-ball hitter," Ken Perkins, Venice girls' coach, said. "Not only did Miss Harmon hit consistently, she also stole about 32 bases during the season." She's real quick. Speed is her forte," Perkins said.

The Venice coach said he wasn't surprised that the two were named All-Conference because they are two of the best players. "But I was surprised that two came from a team with as poor a record as ours," he said with a laugh. The Venice girls' team finished with a 4-8 record, but everyone except two graduating seniors will return next season.

Other girls named All-Conference were Sally Landmann, senior, center field and Julie McDevitt, senior, right field from St. Paul Highland; Amy Logsdon, junior, pitcher and Lois Kovaly, senior, third base from Livingston; Lisa Henson, junior, shortstop and Ellen Edwardsville, who at one time was 4-16, finished in the basement of the Gateway East Conference. They now have a winning streak of ten games going into the state quarter finals.

In Monday's suspended game, the Tigers jumped to a 2-0 lead in the first inning when Murphysboro Red Devil pitcher Todd Dobbs walked in one run and hit a Tiger batter to score Edwardsville's second run.

In that inning, Edwardsville's Mark Johnston singled to right field to begin the Tiger inning. Dave Vieth grounded to second in what appeared to be an apparent double play ball, but Red Devil second baseman Brad McDougale was unable to handle the Vieth bouncer, as Vieth reached to first on an error. In the confusion, Johnston advanced to third.

Vieth wasted little time in advancing to an open second base, as Dobbs' next pitch to Tiger Scott Gerdes got by catcher Rich Spiller. Gerdes then reached on a walk.

With the bases loaded, tension apparently took its toll on the Red Devil hurler as four of his next five pitches to Tiger Todd Hansen went awry scoring the first Tiger run.

Tiger shortstop Kevin King, the sixth Tiger batter of the inning, advanced the second Edwardsville run home when Dobbs hit him with a pitch.

With the bases loaded, Dobbs regained control to strike out the next two Tiger batters to end the inning. Murphysboro retaliated in their half of the second inning to score three runs to take the lead 3-2.

Red Devil lead off batter Dave Taylor reached on an error by Tiger shortstop Gerdes. He advanced to third on a single to center field by designated hitter Lyerla.

Following Lyerla to the plate was sixth batter Flanagan. Flanagan was thrown out on a fielder's choice by Tiger shortstop Kevin King, but Lyerla advanced second on the play.

The throw to first base to get Flanagan was an invitation third base coach Rich Spiller had awaited to send Taylor home.

Taylor hesitated momentarily, and that hesitation nearly cost Murphysboro the run. Taylor's indecision to head for the plate enabled Edwardsville to catch him in a run down. Just when the situation seemed inescapable, the Tiger covering the plate dropped the ball, allowing Murphysboro to tally the scoreboard.

With Lyerla now on third, Red Devil Kevin Bastion bounced to Tiger first baseman Flaucher. This time the Tigers were successful in stopping the ball at the plate. Flaucher's throw to home was early enough to give Vieth ample time to secure the plate from oncoming Lyerla.

Following the throw, Vieth started the slugfest with a double to left-centerfield. Gerdes scored Vieth to tie the game at all with his single to right field.

Hansen scored Gerdes with a double to give Edwardsville the lead at 4-4. With the rains falling at an increasing rate, Flaucher singled, scoring Hansen giving Edwardsville a 6-4 lead.

Tiger Tim Blythe then pounded a ball a ground ball back to Lyerla that forced Flaucher out at second.

Tiger Greg Colligan moved Blythe to second with a walk before the umpires suspended the game due to rain.

Lyerla slammed into Vieth, but Vieth was entrenched, blocking home plate. At that point, Edwardsville had denied the Red Devils the tying run.

With two outs, the Red Devils played their best baseball.

Red Devil Leonard Novara singled to centerfield, scoring Bastion who advanced to second on Lyerla's play at home plate. At that point, with the score now tied at 2 apiece, the Red Devils had the opportunity to take the lead, and did.

McDougale moved Novara around to third with a bloop single to short right field.

With runners on first and third, lead off batter Dan Marrati picked up an infield single to shortstop. Marrati beat Gerdes to first base, scoring Novara to give Murphysboro a 3-2 lead.

Dobbs then grounded out to Tiger pitcher Pat Braun to end the inning.

Following a scoreless Edwardsville second inning, Murphysboro managed a single run in the third to take a 4-2 lead.

Lead off batter Brewer singled to right field, and moved to second on a fielder's choice.

In what may have been the turning point in the game, Pile replaced starting pitcher Braun with Mosley.

Mosley started slowly, allowing Lyerla to pick up his second single to center field in as many times at bat, but retired the next two Red Devils to end the inning. Lyerla's single scored Brewer.

Edwardsville managed to pick up one run in their half of the third with the help of lead off batter Gerdes' single, and some faulting Red Devil pitching.

Tiger Todd Hansen followed suit with a single that moved Gerdes to third. Following two strike outs and a hit batter, designated hitter Mosley picked up a walk with the bases loaded to score Gerdes to move Edwardsville to within a run.

At that point, with all three of Edwardsville's runs granted by walking in a runner or hitting a batter, Murphysboro changed pitchers.

Spiller replaced Dobbs with designated hitter Lyerla. Edwardsville grounded out to end the inning.

In the fourth inning Mosley moved his magic to the mound once again stifling Murphysboro. With the help of his infield and the curve ball, Mosley retired four Red Devils, rendering them scoreless.

With the rains falling, the tide of the game and reversed itself in favor of Mosley and the Tigers.

Following an Edwardsville foul to the catcher, the Tiger bats resounded with four straight hits. Vieth started the slugfest with a double to left-centerfield. Gerdes scored Vieth to tie the game at all with his single to right field.

Hansen scored Gerdes with a double to give Edwardsville the lead at 4-4. With the rains falling at an increasing rate, Flaucher singled, scoring Hansen giving Edwardsville a 6-4 lead.

Tiger Tim Blythe then pounded a ball a ground ball back to Lyerla that forced Flaucher out at second.

Tiger Greg Colligan moved Blythe to second with a walk before the umpires suspended the game due to rain.

Legion club casts 'average' team

By MIKE MOORE
of the Press-Record

"We've got a very young team, most of our players are sophomores and juniors. But we have some good pitchers and I'm sure we'll be more competitive later in the season," commented Joe Barrington, manager of the Glen Carbon American Legion baseball team.

The team lost the first three games to Cahokia 14-11, East Alton 2-1 and Collinsville 12-4. The Tri-City game scheduled for Monday was rained out.

"We should have beat East Alton and Cahokia, a lot of batters were walked," explained Barrington. "I don't know what happened when we played Collinsville!"

This is the first year for the team and they are still in training. Barrington feels confident in starting this team because there are many boys that want to play ball in this area. Adding another team to the district weakens the strength of many, but more boys get to play.

"We're not too strong at hitting. If we were a little better, I think we could've won a game," said Barrington. "Our team doesn't have any outstanding player, but we do have a very well rounded team."

Last year both Granite City South and Granite City North players made up the Tri-City team. Glen Carbon consists mainly of players from Granite City North, with the remaining players from Madison.

Paul Barrington, Carl Luehmann, Kevin Patterson, Samuel Tate and Dan Stern will be pitching for the team. All pitchers are from Granite City North except for Stern who is from Madison. Luehmann will also play shortstop along with Brian Levin from North. Scott Corey and Rodney Heasler will alternate first base. Greg Beeler will play at third base while Brian Corey will play second base. "Brian is the oldest member on our team," said Barrington.

Vince Mitchell and Mike Caves are both playing catcher. The outfield consists of Sergio Cortes, Mike Sullivan, David Kaminski and Jim Smith.

Glen Carbon plays O'Fallon tonight at 6 p.m. at the Granite City North field, Belleville Monday at 6 p.m. away, Bethalto Tuesday at 6 p.m. at the Granite City North field, Alton Thursday at 6 p.m. away and Fairview Saturday at 2 p.m. away.

Larry Corey coaches the team and the Mitchell Athletic Club sponsors them. The Glen Carbon American Legion Post 435 is the Legion sponsor.

Frey, a senior from Edwardsville, and Flach, a sophomore from St. Louis, were selected by the coaches as the outstanding female and male athletes at SIUE for the 1981-82 year.

Jr. Legion team provides Sr. Legion training

By NANCY WEIL

Jeff Parker and Kevin Sykes are taking a lesson in role reversal this summer. The two are sharing duties coaching the newly-formed Granite City Junior American Legion baseball team.

For the most part, Parker and Sykes are accustomed to playing for Granite City High School South or various other teams in the area, but the adjustment to coaching seems to be working well.

"It feels good inside (to coach). I always looked up to the older guys who were helping me in high school. I hope that's how these kids feel," Parker said.

He and Sykes are faced with the task of coaching a team that ranges in age and skill from about 14 to 18. There is no minimum age for participation in the Junior American Legion, but Parker and Sykes picked their team carefully after watching the South and Granite City High School North teams play so the youngest team members are entering their freshman year in high school.

It worked out that the entire team is composed of boys from South. Each Junior Legion team member's name can be placed on the Senior American Legion's roster, composed mostly of local high school graduates and college players.

"It (the Junior Legion) helps get kids experience. It's like a minor league system for the Senior Legion," Parker said.

This is the second year of existence for the Junior Legion, but last year the only team composed of Granite Cityans played in the St. Louis, Mo. league.

Like the Senior American Legion team, the younger group has gained support in the area through sponsors who have donated about $1,400 of the necessary $1,700. Parents pitched in to contribute $500.

Everything appears to be moving smoothly for the team with one exception — all the games have been rained out so far. This, Parker admitted, has made it more difficult to determine positions and check skill levels. There are a few players on the team who did not play during the high school season because of injuries.

"So far, Kevin and I are just looking at a lot of people to play different positions. Some of them will be playing different positions from what they did in school," Parker said.

During the time the team has been able to practice, Parker and Sykes have watched them make the same mistakes the coaching pair made during their high school careers.

At South, both young men played the infield. Sykes played second base and shortstop and Parker played wherever helped Edson Warfield coach Senior Legion baseball last summer and Sykes has taught baseball school through the Granite City Park District. But now, they find themselves in a whole different ball game.

The following sponsors have contributed to the Granite City Junior American Legion team:

Parents, $500; American Heritage Bank, $100; Granite City Car Wash, $100 and hats; Hook's Tavern, $100; Master Dental, $100 and T-shirts; P.H. Hair Productions, $100; Anonymous, $100; Tacole, $100; Renaissance Health Center, Inc., $20; Ingleside Tavern, $50; Granite City Trust Bank, $100; Benson's Inc. (Farm Fresh Dairy Store, 2320 Pontoon Rd.), $10; Kovach Candy Sales, $20; Holly Enterprises, $20; Farm Fresh Dairy Drive-In, 2028 Nameoki Rd.; Evelyn Morgan, $5; G Car Wash, $100; Snelson Auto Body, $15; Unique Hair Fashions, $30; Irwin Chapel, $15; P & S Amusement Co., $25; Ponderosa, $50.

Civics pickup four victories, now 4-2

By AL BARNES

For the Press-Record

EDWARDSVILLE — (Special) — It was a rip-roaring, go-for-broke weekend for the Southwestern Illinois Civics semi-pro baseball team as it won three and lost one.

Saturday, the Civics swept two games, defeating a very good West (St. Louis) County team, 10-6, in the opening frames of a twin-bill. In the nightcap, the Civics received a brilliant two-hit shutout mound job from Keith Harper to turn back the Cape Girardeau Capahaws, 4-0.

Sunday, the Civics looked awesome and overpowering as they opened a sabbath day doubleheader by almost demolishing the Cape Capahaws, 10-3. However, in the second game, the Cape line salvaged something from the long trip from the Boot Heel and bounced back to top the Civics, 5-2.

After the grueling weekend, the Civics are now 4-2, while the Capahaws are 7-3.

Tonight (Thursday), the Civics will return to the baseball wars when they host Maryville, Ill., in a twilight single game beginning at 6:15 on the diamond at Southern Illinois University at

The apparently everlasting rains have cancelled five games for the Civics. Lack of diamonds for rescheduling will prevent, in nearly all cases, the games from being played in the future.

Saturday, at 1 p.m., the Civics will play the Highland-Piercen Merchants for the second time this season at Fletcher Field in Collinsville. Sunday, it'll be a doubleheader for the Civics as they meet the Washington, Mo., Buds starting at 1 p.m. at Edwardsville's Hoppe Park.

In the Civics' victory over the West County Braves, the Civics had four hitting stars: Jack Scarborough, 3 for 3 and two runs batted in; Rusty Hilgenkamp, 2 for 4 and one RBI; Bill Stoltz, 2 for 4 and three RBIs, and Bobby Hughes, player-manager, 2 for 3 and two RBIs.

In the second game Saturday, Stoltz continued his robust hitting: he was three for four and drove in two runs. But, in that same game, Edwardsville's Tim Gamble mounted a hitting attack which turned out to be awesome as he homered, and doubled twice for a quartet of runs batted in. He added a triple and a double for a perfect day at bat in the Civics' 4-0 shutout over the Capahaws.

In that shutout, Keith Harper, an ace for the SIUE Cougars in the recent collegiate season, held the Capahaws to just two hits and fanned eight.

Jeff Gass, after allowing six hits and four runs in three innings against Cape Sunday, settled down and hurled hitless ball the remainder of the game to make his record 1-1.

Sports on the Run

Cooney is the new kid on the block. "The Irishman" has a style of boxing that differs from most boxers today. Cooney is a "stand up boxer," a puncher. His Marciano style of fighting is a remnant of the past, although his punches have known to send many opponents into next week.

One interesting statistic about the Holmes-Cooney fight, called the experience factor, was released this week.

In Cooney's 25 fights he's averaged only 3.4 rounds, not giving him a lot of time in the ring. On the other hand, Holmes has done battle in an average of 6.5 rounds in each of his 39 fights.

There are two ways of looking at it. First, Cooney has only boxed 85 rounds in his entire professional career. The not nearly as many as Holmes' 253 rounds. That's a question arises, Does Cooney have enough experience?

The other way of looking at it would be to justify the brevity of his rounds to his ability to put his opponents in short order. After all, if you annihilate your opponent in the early going, who's there to box in the later rounds?

Don't call Cooney short sports fans. Likewise, Holmes is a long way from hanging up his gloves. Whatever the outcome tomorrow night at Caesar's Palace in Las Vegas, either boxer is sure will wear the championship belt with integrity.

Sports of all Sorts

By AL BARNES
 The news of the "passing" of Leroy "Satch" Paige hit me like a bat blow to the head.
 I'm a sentimental man, there's no doubt of it. The sight of the aging veterans of the American Legion or Vets of Foreign Wars in Memorial Day parades or, Bill
 Bangert singing the National Anthem before a Cardinal (football or baseball) game, brings a mist to my eyes.
 I cried like a baby when I heard over TV that "Old Satch" had died. Of course, I knew that it would happen sooner or later, but somehow it never really seemed possible that he would. He was ageless and probably one of the greatest and most colorful figures American sports ever spawned.

He entered my life back in 1922 when I was going to high school in Louisville, Ky., at DuPont Manual. The family I roomed with lived close by the Colonels ball park and,
 incidentally, Churchill
 Downs, and both places became regular stops on my 16-year-old rounds.

Outdrew the Colonels
 When the Colonels were
 "on the road," the Louisville team of the Black League played its games there and,
 not surprisingly, outdrew
 their lily-white brethren, largely because of such amazing black baseball players as O'F. Satch.
 Memories play tricks on one, that's for sure. Who he played for then, I can't rightly remember, except that when he came to town (Louisville), the ballpark was jam-packed. The excitement I recall now, 50 years later, made the chills run up and down one's back.
 I loved the game.
 The crowds were largely black, but always had a more than considerable contingent of whites in attendance. Those were the fans, the whites, that is, who loved baseball at its best and Louis and his cohorts.

gave them just that.
 To me at 16 or 17, a man of 22 to 26, which Paige was at that time, made O'F. Satch appear to me as a veteran.
 His talents on the mound
 have been told many times.
 When a player made an outstanding play, the crowd always responded loudly.
 And, as already mentioned,
 there was a dialogue between the fans and the players which added something sadly lacking in games in the Big Leagues, then all-white.

Veech Didn't Gamble
 So, it wasn't a gamble when Veech signed him. He knew what he could do with a baseball—even at age 40 or thereabouts. And, sure enough, he (Satch) helped Lou Boudreau nail down the American League Pennant for Cleveland. Funny thing, I can't remember who they played in the World Series or what the outcome was.

My only direct, personal contact with Paige came earlier than that, during the World Series between the Cardinals and the Boston
 Red Sox in 1946. It happened at the old Jefferson Hotel in downtown St. Louis, after one of the Series games, when the flock of reporters covering the Series gathered to quaff some brews and exchange lies, etc.
 Satch to the Rescue
 Old Satch, which whom I was talking, noticed my red face, put his arms around my neck and whispered:
 "Don't let it get you, man. It doesn't bother me. Some day soon, you'll see, they'll be glad to pay to see me pitch with either the Browns or some other major league team. You can be sure of that." Of course, those probably weren't his exact words, but it was the gist of them. And, sure enough, he made it two years later with the Indians and, finally,
 pitched for Veech at St.
 Louis and the Browns.
 And, I know for sure, that up in heaven, right now, Old Satch is regaling the baseball faithful of how he struck out the side in six straight innings in Louisville, Ky., back in 1922 before the eyes of a young man who wanted to cover baseball, and did.

One more thought about the blacks' entry into baseball.
 I was in the press box back
 there in 1946 when Jackie Robinson and the Dodgers made their first trip around the league. Incidentally, Robinson, who wasn't permitted to stay at the same hotel as the Brooklyn players did, had a nerve-wracking experience that Wednesday afternoon. I think it was; it was in midweek, when he made his debut in St. Louis at Sportsman's Park.

Every Move Checked
 On an ordinary afternoon game in midweek, the Cardinals were lucky to draw 10,000, but for this one,
 well over 30,000 (capacity)
 were in attendance. And, at least 28,000 of them were black, who cheered every move Robinson made—as could be expected.

After the Cards retired the Dodgers in the leadoff inning, the Redbirds came up.
 After two outs, Enos
 "Country" Slaughter came to bat. He went for the first pitch and slashed a wicked line drive right at Robinson at first base. "Whit" his amazing reflexes, Jackie managed to knock the drive down, but then it happened.

 "The ball came to rest right
 under Robinson's body, between his legs, and sadly for him, he couldn't locate or find the ball.
 And, while Jackie frantically tried to locate the ball, the brothers and sisters in the large and noisy stands were all trying to tell him where it was. Finally, the Brooklyn pitcher came over and retrieved the ball. But,
 meanwhile, Slaughter was resting on second base.
 Funny thing, I can't remember who won the game.
 Satch, hail and farewell.

Food—from farm to market

(This is the seventh of 15 articles exploring "Food and People." In this article, Dean Dan Padberg of the College of Food and Natural Resources, University of Massachusetts, discusses factors that add to the cost of food from the farm to the supermarket. Copyright (c) 1982 by the Regents of the University of California.)

By DAN PADBERG
The food industry is our largest industry. It feeds our population on roast beef and apple pie, together with fast food, junk food and convenience food.

It is easy to condemn our food system for exacting too high a price, not only in monetary terms, but also in terms of the wholesomeness of our diet.

Pointing to the profits made at each step from farm to supermarket shelf, critics argue that food should not cost so much in a land of plenty.

As we judge this system, however, we should keep in mind how consumers behave and which products they purchase and make profitable.

We all properly associate our food with the land. American agriculture is enormously efficient: the average farmer feeds his own family and at least 40 other families in this country and abroad.

Agriculture — or agribusiness, as it is often called today — is without question primarily a business for profit.

This is nothing new. Food has been produced for profit rather than for people for hundreds of years.

Most of the cost of food today, however, is not in the labor of growing it on the land. Most of the cost is in transportation, processing, packaging, advertising, distribution, and marketing — in other words, everything that happens to food from the farm to the consumer.

Agriculture employs only about three percent of the total U.S. labor force; the food chain, from the farm to the store shelf, employs about 20 percent.

Are the costs associated with this very large food industry really necessary? LOW-COST FOOD ALTERNATIVES

Most of the human race lives on diets much less expensive than our own. The average annual income of three-fourths of the world population is less than $600 per person.

Since our primary grains and vegetables, which — supplemented with very small amounts of dairy and meat products — can provide optimal nutrition at very low cost.

Are our consumers denied this choice? Not at all. Probably every supermarket in America has dried beans and some of the other elements of a subsistence diet.

If these products were in larger demand, they would be provided in greater quantity and variety.

While it is interesting to think about a subsistence diet in America, it is not very relevant within our economy.

The U.S. population was the richest in the world at the end of World War II.

Since then, average real income — after taxes and inflation — has doubled, so that our generation has twice the spending power of our parents.

We don't want to consume twice as much of the simpler foods they ate — we want more convenience and variety.

We eat away from home more frequently. Even the welfare family has little interest in the staples of the subsistence diet eaten by most of the world's population.

We don't want the cheapest possible food supply. In our affluence, we want to be pampered — but at a reasonable price.

It is difficult, however, to find sensible rules for a food supply in an affluent society.

Our interest in variety, convenience, and status encourages unnecessary costs in advertising and packaging, and for low-volume specialty products.

Yet, these activities are unavoidable unless we want to go back to a diet of staple food products.

THE COSTS OF CONVENIENCE.
In order for us to have the convenience that our busy and affluent population seems to demand, food must often be cooked in the factory rather than in the home kitchen.

The product must then be packaged, transported, and distributed in very small (one-meal size) quantities. Consider the marketing cost differences between food and other ingredients for bread and the finished product.

The ingredients can be transported inexpensively. Packaging of bread is very expensive.

There is waste when bread goes stale. Bread takes a lot more shelf space in a store than flour and yeast.

Clearly, we pay more for our diet by buying bread rather than its ingredients. And most of the cost is related to marketing the finished product.

Few would argue that the store product is superior to home-baked bread, but it is more convenient.

The cost of convenience foods is also affected by confusion about prices and values.

Previous generations bought staple food products by the pound and had a good idea what a fair price was for their more important purchases.

But what is a fair price for baked or frozen finished products? You buy chicken by the pound, but how do you buy a chicken TV dinner?

The few ingredients that grandmother bought could be made into hundreds of finished products. Now, these products are increasingly made in the factory.

While we like the variety, it is not easy to be wise shoppers. We can't analyze each choice, for there are many thousands of choices in a single supermarket. Yet there are some good shopping habits that may be helpful.

We can be aware that most new products are introduced by the largest companies with big advertising budgets and well-known brand names.

On the other hand, most of the largest supermarket chains have their own store brands and the new generic, plain-label food products.

Both the house brands and the generic products are economy oriented. Their quality is reliable and the savings are large.

The aware consumer can then choose among exotic and expensive products or economy alternatives. CONSEQUENCES OF AN INDUSTRIALIZED SYSTEM.

Higher cost is only one consequence of food preparation in the factory. It also changes our diets and perhaps our values.

Only the prepared foods are highly advertised. Fresh fruits and vegetables are usually offered in the market by smaller firms, and with less "product development," packaging and advertising.

Because of the exciting sales activities for processed foods, we may shift away from fresh products faster than we otherwise would — or than we should.

We also may shift more to snack foods and away from balanced meals. Both of these dietary shifts involve less work at home.

The use of additives for preserving prepared foods is another consequence of an industrialized food system.

We may be increasing our vulnerability to cancer-causing substances without knowing it, because some of these effects become apparent only after years of exposure.

Additives put into finished food products to preserve them (such as nitrates) and to color them (such as Red Dye No. 2) are a "continuing concern" to many Americans as well as to the regulatory agencies responsible for the safety of our food supply.

The trend toward prepared foods — and toward the big business firms that produce them — also affects local food producers.

When consumers used to buy staples, local producers could often be significant food suppliers. The more specialized system of today wants to buy food supplies in very large quantities.

For this reason, the most efficient production regions are favored.

Some vegetables for processing are concentrated along the northern border of the United States. Specialty crops grow in the mild climates of the southern states. Grains and meat products come from the plains.

This specialization enables very efficient and commercial production, which is an advantage. At the same time, it squeezes out many

SMALLER-SCALE LOCAL PRODUCERS.
In addition, our specialized system requires shipping food over great distances, adding to the high usage of our methods of producing and processing food.

In this linking an efficient production system with the world's most affluent consumers, our complex food marketing system handles such necessary functions as transportation, processing and storage.

But it also adds a lot of otherwise unnecessary activities, such as preparing convenience foods, advertising and packaging.

It is these functions that represent a good share of the cost of the American diet.

East St. Louis reunion

Graduates of the 1923 and 1924 classes of East St. Louis High School will hold a reunion on Sunday at Fischer's Restaurant in Belleville. Festivities start at 2 p.m. and will include dinner and entertainment.

The reunion will honor Milton Harrington and his wife, Doris, who were instrumental in locating and getting classmates together for the first reunion in 1953.

Other reunions have been held since with the largest on the 50th anniversary in 1973.

In 1980 the classmates honored Art Heins, who started the search for "survivors" and sparked interest in having the reunions. Of 320 graduates of the four classes all but one (Alice Czevech) were located or accounted for.

More than 100 reservations are in for the reunion, which will bring classmates from California, Florida, Virginia
